FRENCH FAIL TO AGREE ON GOVERNMENT

Executive Committee Convened After Two-Day Deadlock

PURGE IS SOUGHT BY GEN. DE GAULLE

Asks That All Officials of Pro-Vichy Tendencies Be Ousted

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press) The French executive committee was formally brought into existence today and given the name of the National Committee of Liberation.

The committee's personnel is the same as previously agreed upon with Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles de Gaulle as joint heads alternating in presiding.

Following the meeting, political questions reported important changes would be made in the leadership for Algeria and French Morocco.

They said Gen. Georges Catroux, who was liaison officer between Generals Giraud and De Gaulle, would succeed resigned Marcel Peyrou as governor-general of Algeria, and Gabriel Puaux, former high commissioner in Syria, would succeed Gen. Auguste Nogues as resident general of French Morocco.

ALGIERS, June 3.—Members of the French executive committee met today after expressing an intention to declare their organization the governing body for liberated France, but it was indicated when the session closed that this measure still was pending.

No official announcement was made.

The meeting broke a two-day deadlock during which no meetings were held. Tension was evident in Algiers.

An agenda had been agreed upon in conversations among members yesterday, but by this morning, it was reported, several additional points which were opposed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle had been put on the program. This was believed to have caused the delay.

Compromise Revealed
Details of the compromise between De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud on the former's demand for a purge of officials who formerly were of pro-Vichy tendencies were revealed by well-informed persons who cannot be identified by name.

De Gaulle had insisted the housecleaning take place before the committee was formally established, they said, while Giraud demanded the committee be set up first and then consider each case on its merits.

These persons said De Gaulle had yielded to Giraud's demand for selection of the committee first and that it was agreed the consideration of individual cases would begin immediately.

De Gaulle's view is that the committee will have no moral influence unless it cleans out those officials whom he described as not "worthy" to lead the French in war.

It is known that De Gaulle was displeased by Giraud's appointment of Vice Admiral Emile Muselier as chief in charge of public order in the Algiers area, but it is not yet known whether he has added

Errors in Filling Applications Hold Up Ration Book 3

More Than Half of Two-Million Forms Filled Out Are Incorrect

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, June 3.—More than 50 per cent of the applications for war ration book No. 3 received at the state mailing center here are "in error," Joseph L. Cannon, state mailing director, disclosed today.

That will mean, Cannon said, those Ohioans who filled out their post-card applications incorrectly may not receive their new ration books when needed.

The improper applications are being laid aside to be processed later.

The gigantic task of checking applications from all over the state began Monday. Cannon first estimated the job could be accomplished in two weeks, including the processing of ration cards and preparing them for mailing.

"That was before I inspected the applications," he said. "To date we have received approximately 2,000,000 applications. Easily one million or more are in error. At this rate it is useless to speculate when we will finish and the people will receive their books."

Cannon listed failure to fill in all the blank spaces on the card, duplication and illegible handwriting as the most common mistakes.

And we've received literally thousands," he added, "that have a three-cent stamp attached to a perfectly blank card."

The director also received an indignant letter from a woman in the northeastern part of the state who said she would "go hungry" before she would give her age. Another application, torn into tiny bits, came in an envelope. An accompanying letter explained apologetically "the baby chewed it a little."

Cannon said, "no doubt these persons expect to receive ration books, too. The situation will be very grave indeed unless the applications that are returned in the future are correct."

Lack of volunteer helpers, Cannon said, may delay distribution of the ration books. The mailing center has asked 2,000 recruits a day to work in three shifts from nine in the morning till midnight. So far volunteers have been few, the director said.

"We cannot complete our job without these helpers," Cannon declared. "I might as well admit we are way behind in our work as it is."

Wet May Qualifies For 50-Year Record, Copeland Reveals

May, 1943, with 24 days of rain, only two clear days, 18 partly cloudy and 11 cloudy, holds the record for the most rainy May days in 50 years, according to L. H. Copeland of Millport, U. S. weather observer for Columbiana county.

May, 1924, was a close second with 21 rainy days and 5.17 inches of rain. The month just closed had a total of 5.17 inches of rain, an average temperature of 55.8 degrees more than two degrees below the 50-year average—and a temperature fluctuation of 62 degrees. The maximum of 86 was on the sixth, four days after the minimum of 24 degrees. Five thunderstorms were recorded.

Normal precipitation for May over a 50 year period is 3.3 inches. In the first five months of this year there have been 80 days of rain. The year is short 1268 degrees in temperature and ahead 1.16 inches in rain, Copeland reports.

With only 20 percent sunshine last month, farmers never had as much trouble getting crops planted. Many oats fields will not be planted and only 50 percent of the corn has been planted.

"Chances for a corn crop planted in June are very doubtful," Copeland says. "What oats were planted is making a favorable growth, and a few corn fields are coming up, but nothing short of a miracle will give Columbiana county a normal crop."

"Most wheat fields look favorable. Pastures and meadows are booming and the countryside is a green robe of beauty."

The wettest May was in 1929, with 6.5 inches of rain; the driest in 1934, with only .52 of an inch; the warmest in 1918, with a mean temperature of 62.5 degrees; and the coldest in 1917, with a mean temperature of 51.5 degrees.

AXIS CONVOY IS RAIDED BY ALLIED SHIPS

Two Merchant Vessels and Escorting Torpedo Boat Sunk

ENEMY DESTROYER IS DRIVEN ASHORE

Pantelleria Bombed Again; Radio Installations Are Shot Up

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 3.—Allied destroyers sank two Axis merchant vessels and an escorting torpedo boat and drove an enemy destroyer ashore burning Tuesday night in an attack on a convoy off Cape Spartivento, Italy, it was announced today.

"Our force suffered no casualties or damage," said a communique issued from the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied command in chief.

One of the sunken merchant vessels blew up after being set afire by the destroyers' guns, the bulletin said. Among the attacking force was one vessel of the Royal Greek Navy.

United States war planes swept over Pantelleria almost at will yesterday, blowing up one building in the port area and damaging others, and shot up radio installations and bivouacked troops in southern Sardinia.

Maintain Air Offensive
Marauders, Lightnings and Warhawks maintained the merciless air offensive against Mussolini's fortified rock 45 miles east of the tip of Cap Bon peninsula.

The operations were carried out without loss of any of the Allied planes, the announcement said. From their desert hideouts, RAF long-range fighters swept over the Aegean sea yesterday, sinking two small sailing vessels at anchor in an island harbor and damaging a third by cannon fire. Middle East air command added.

The daring Allied naval attack struck at the heart of Italy's sea communications in defiance of the Italian fleet.

Together with two naval bombardments this week of Pantelleria, it indicated that in Italy's southern waters the Allies had achieved naval supremacy to match their air supremacy.

The Italians are dependent on the Strait of Messina between Sicily and the toe of the Italian mainland to sail cargo ships between the west and east coasts. Capo Spartivento stands at the southern approach to the Strait of Messina.

CHURCHILL PLANE HUNTED BY NAZIS

Believed Gunning for Premier When They Shot Down Transport

LONDON, June 3.—Belief

prevailed in some quarters here today that the Germans were gunning for Prime Minister Churchill when they shot down a Britain-bound air liner bringing Leslie Howard and 12 other passengers from Lisbon Tuesday.

Reports said there was a greater concentration of Nazi-planes over the Bay of Biscay—where the liner was last heard from while under attack—than at any one time in many months, and they were said to be pouncing on every aircraft they spotted.

It might be assumed, observers held, that the Germans were out to get Churchill, believing he might be coming home from Washington via that route.

German controlled radio stations had put out various stories about the prime minister's whereabouts during the past week.

The missing British airliner was manned by a Dutch crew of four. Besides Howard, the following were listed among the passengers: Mrs. Rotha Hutcheson and her daughters Petra, 11, and Caroline, aged 18 months, Lieut. Col. A. G. Hutcheson of the British army.

Alfred T. Chenhall, 43, London accountant and company director. Kenneth Stonehouse, Washington correspondent of Reuters news agency, and his wife.

Mrs. Cecilia Amelia Paton. Tyrell Sherrington, a Shell company executive at Lisbon. Ivan James Sharp, a London official of the United-Kingdom Corp. Francis Thomas MacLean. Wilfred Jacob Berthold Israel of London.

War Labor Board Calls Halt to UMW-Coal Operators' Negotiations

BOMBERS HAMMER HITLER RESERVE

War and Tear On His War Machine Should Be Showing Up Soon

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Anglo-American "experiment" of trying to bomb Corporal Hitler into near incapacity is said in well-informed quarters to be proceeding splendidly according to plan, and it shouldn't be long now before the wear and tear begins to show in his fighting machine.

The effect of such bombing is, of course, cumulative. That's to say, Hitler naturally has reserve supplies which are considerably in advance of his immediate requirements. Thus even if all his war-production were halted at one time, it would not necessarily stop his fighting-machine forthwith.

Filling Up Disaster
This means that the destruction of an industrial city might not be felt at the front for some weeks.

Continued day and night devastation of manufacturing centers over a wide area, however, will accumulate a mountain of disaster that in due course will hit the fuhrer like an avalanche. Then will be the time for the Allies to put an army onto the continent from the English channel and march on Berlin.

One of the results of this bombing already evident is that the Nazis are having to increase the manufacture of fighter planes in order to defend their industrial centers from bombing. This means a decrease in the production of bombers and consequently in the raiding operations of the Luftwaffe.

In other words, Hitler is having to turn his air force into a defensive weapon.

While the Allied bombing is giving amazing results, a Royal Air Force commentator in London yesterday said that greatly increased numbers of USAAF bombers are needed for operations from Britain.

At the same time he paid high tribute to American daylight bombing and said it contributed greatly towards making May the most successful month of the aerial offensive.

The commentator didn't amplify his statement, but the point he had in mind undoubtedly is this: To bring the bombing drive to its peak of efficiency there must be constant

DONORS FOR BLOOD BANK ARE SOUGHT

At Least 80 Pints Needed. Red Cross Officials Announce

Registration for the local blood plasma bank will be taken at the Salem Red Cross office in the Memorial building anytime. Persons wishing to donate blood are asked to phone the Red Cross, 5219.

After a sufficient number of persons signs up, the donors will be called in.

Officials of the Civilian Defense council, which is sponsoring the plasma bank, hope to obtain 30 pints of blood from Salem persons and 50 additional pints from citizens in surrounding communities.

The blood, after it has been converted into plasma, will be kept available at the Keener cold storage.

Life belts, to be worn by United States soldiers while on ships, will be manufactured by the General Tire Co. of Akron at the plant of the Franklin Furniture Co., it was disclosed today with the announcement that the rubber company had leased the furniture factory's main production floor.

Between 100 and 300 women are expected to be employed in the manufacture of the life belts, with the first crews going to work next week. Employment is being handled mostly through the U. S. Employment Service here.

L. Frank Smith, president of the Franklin Furniture Co., who announced the leasing by the General Tire Co., said the army life belts are semi-automatic, being inflated by the soldier by releasing gas from two compressed air cylinders. An alternate means of inflation is a hand pump.

A delousing bag also will be manufactured at the Columbiana plant. Vulcanizing equipment was being installed today for the production of the rubber articles.

Smith said that women will be able to become skilled at the work in two to four weeks.

The Franklin Furniture Co. itself will continue to manufacture furniture, the president of the company said. Wood springs, made to government specification and proven satisfactory, are being used.

Newspapers Are Key

MINERS MAY SPURN FDR WORK APPEAL

Some, Apparently, Would Refuse, Others Are Doubtful

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—Whether the nation's striking coal miners would heed a personal plea from President Roosevelt to return to their jobs was an unsettled question today—but many miners questioned in Pennsylvania and West Virginia apparently would refuse.

Inquiries among the scores of tiny mining "patches" where the coal diggers live with their families brought a response generally that the strikers would remain idle unless given something concrete.

"We're not going back this time on promises," was the comment of George Polovsky, a coal cutter, given at Fairbanks, near Uniontown, as he leaned on the backyard fence he was repairing.

"I'll do anything the government wants me to do but I won't work for nothing," said Polovsky. "We went back before without a contract but I don't see how it'll do us any good now unless we get something definite."

Some others said the same thing in different ways. "The people might say we're unpatriotic, but we're only trying to bring this thing to a head," said Joseph Conroy, a neighbor of Polovsky. "We're as patriotic as any other person living in this country and all we want is enough money to get us through."

Conroy has four sons in the service.

Picketing Not Necessary
William Smith, vice president of the Fairbanks local 6301 of the UMW said that so far as his local is concerned, nothing would be done to stop men who want to work. He pointed to the motionless tipple of the nearby Filbert mine and said:

"You can see for yourself picketing isn't necessary."

Smith said, however, the question of disobeying a direct appeal from the President was "too big an issue" for any one local to settle. He said he believed it possible that if one or two locals voted to go back some others would follow."

DARLING IS GIVEN HYDRANT CONTRACT

The board of control yesterday awarded a contract to the Darling Valve & Mfg. Co. of Williamsport, Pa., for furnishing fire hydrants as needed by the city during the year.

The fire hydrants cost $76.45 apiece. The Vogt Bros. Mfg. Co. of Louisville, Ky., submitted a slightly lower bid but the board of control chose to retain the standard hydrant which it has purchased from year to year from the Williamsport firm.

Tomorrow the board of control expects to open bids for the purchase of asphalt needed to complete the W. State st. paving project and also for a deep well turbine pump for the waterworks department.

UNION LABOR BOARD CALLED BY PRESIDENT

Increased Signs of Action Are Apparent in Coal Dispute

THREE POSSIBLE COURSES ARE OPEN

No Decision Expected Before Late Today or Tomorrow

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt called the CIO-AFL labor war board to the White House for a conference today amid increasing signs of some presidential action designed to end the stoppage of coal production by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Observers of the tangled situation, which has half a million men staying away from their jobs in the mines, saw at least three possible roads open to Mr. Roosevelt:

An order or appeal to the miners to go back to work, the invocation of sanctions such as a draft reclassification or denial of other work to the miners, or a compromise with Lewis.

The possibility of any action before late today, or perhaps tomorrow, appeared remote, however.

There was evidence that the White House and James F. Byrnes, new war mobilization director, were working behind the scenes to bring the coal strike to a conclusion.

WLB Order Stands
Nevertheless, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said he assumed the war labor board's order that negotiations between the operators and miners be halted until men are back in the coal pits still stands.

Members of the combined labor war board meet periodically with the President to consider all matters pertaining to labor in the war effort. There was no specific indication the chief executive would bring the coal dispute before it, although chances appeared to be good that he would go over the coal problems with the CIO and AFL leaders. The United Mine Workers have no representative on the board.

Those coming to the White House included President William Green of the AFL; Phillip Murray, CIO president; Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Electrical Workers union; R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO Automobile Workers union, and George Meany, AFL secretary. Early told the press he was neither forecasting nor anticipating any White House statement or action on the coal situation later on in the day.

CANTON MAN'S TRIAL IS NEARING CLOSE

LISBON, June 3.—The second degree murder trial of William Redmehovich, 50, may come to a close by Friday afternoon, it was indicated today as defense counsel called eight witnesses today. Prosecutor Frank Springer rested the state's case yesterday.

The defense asked for a directed verdict of acquittal after the state rested, but this motion was overruled by the court. Ten witnesses were called by the prosecutor.

Redmehovich is held in the fatal shooting of Frank Ulrich, 34, at the home of Mrs. Raymond Leo Porter, rear of 448 Aetna st., where Ulrich roomed.

GIRL SCOUTS AID FAT COLLECTION

Girl Scouts have collected more than 1500 pounds of greases and fats in Salem for war salvage purposes, Mrs. R. B. Kernohan, salvage member of the Civilian Defense council, reported today.

One scout, Miriam Bauman, turned in over 200 pounds. The girls are being directed in this work by Mrs. E. T. Trebilcock.

Mrs. Kernohan urged Salem housewives to report to Mrs. Trebilcock when they have fats and greases for collection, or to take them to their grocers.

Liquor Going Up
WASHINGTON, June 3.—Skyrocketing liquor prices prompted the Office of Price Administration today to seek an improved program of price control.

OPA called on all owners of brands of distilled spirits to file by July 9 complete data on prices, and to describe the method by which they established their ceilings.

It was thought probable the agency might establish a new maximum schedule at the distiller level, with the retail price to be determined by specific wholesale and retail mark-ups.

MR. BYRNES AND SELF-DISCIPLINE

In his inaugural address as assistant chief executive in charge of domestic affairs, James F. Byrnes spoke of the need for greater efficiency. "We must learn to work, to fight, to sacrifice together as we have never done before," he declared. "We must accept willingly and gladly a self-discipline to which we are not by tradition accustomed."

When Mr. Byrnes says "We," he means everybody, including those persons in Washington who are officially responsible for the conduct of the war effort. The need for self-discipline on the part of a housewife who must plan meals with what she can obtain and what her budget can stand is extremely important, but it can't hold a candle to the need for self-discipline in the highest places of the government.

Mr. Byrnes has been given unprecedented authority as head of a new office of war mobilization because of a breakdown in self-discipline in government. There has been a shortage of understanding and cooperation among individuals and agencies responsible for telling the people what to do. To a large extent, the awareness of that weakness at the top can be blamed for trouble farther down the line. Official confusion has been reflected in popular confusion.

Chief responsibility shifted to Mr. Byrnes in the new arrangement of delegated authority is that of bringing order out of an inflation control policy that is wobbling seriously under its own weight of inconsistency. It is his job to persuade some of his best acquaintances in Washington to quit fighting with each other and imaginary enemies outside their charmed circle and to practice the self-discipline essential to victory.

It is fine to exhort the people—and the people can use some exhortation now and then—but they in their turn would like to exhort their own government. Experience has shown that the people stand ready and willing to do what is asked of them, up to the point where the directions begin to get so confusing that they have no alternative but to wait till Washington makes up its mind. They are waiting now for Washington to decide whether it is for or against inflation, waiting not quite so patiently as they have waited before, but still waiting. It can't be for it and against it at the same time.

CASE OF UNITED STATES VS. LEWIS

There now has been a strike against the government of the United States, shattering a precedent. Henceforth, the coal miners bossed by John L. Lewis can boast that they did it and got away with it.

It is a strike tied up in so many complications that no one can claim to understand it, but work has stopped in vital coal mines being operated by government authority. By any other name a strike smells just the same.

The strikers, in this instance as in previous instances, are being obedient to the will of John L. Lewis, the president of their union. They are being disobedient to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president of their country.

Among all the other details and complications, this is the only one that matters. In wartime, in the season when the national war effort is expected to approach a climax for the first time since the United States entered the war, in the midst of an international struggle to determine whether men shall continue to have a voice in the determination of their own destinies, hundreds of thousands of miners have turned their backs on their government in favor of the president of their union, who has a different idea. Their work has stopped.

The recent victory in Tunisia and the more recent one on the bleak island of Attu have been robbed of some of their shine and glory. The United States has fumbled one of its most important projects at home. It has retreated in a battle with infinitely more long-range importance than the conquest of a pile of rocks in the Aleutians or a coastal plain in the Mediterranean. The leader of a union—one union—has proved that he is more powerful than the government, itself. Now what?

JUNE OFFENSIVES

Joseph E. Davies is quoted as confident that Germany, which failed in two previous summer offensives to break Russian resistance, can't succeed this summer either. His opinion, made public after conversations with Premier Stalin, carries weight.

It will be noted, however, that a summer offensive is expected. The striking power of the Axis on the continent has not been shattered. Even the likelihood of an Allied invasion has not changed the prospect of at least one more massive German drive into Russian territory.

While little has been heard recently of Japan's probable plans for the summer, other than the opinion of Kiso K. Hara, Korean political leader, that an attack on the United States is scheduled, it must be assumed that Japan will not lose the war by default. Like Germany, its best chance is aggression. Like Germany, if Japan adopted defensive strategy its doom would be certain and would be so construed by the Japanese themselves.

Only Italy, of the original Axis powers, has been knocked out of the war as an offensive threat. All the speculation of months now comes to rest on a well defined point in time, the month of June, which almost certainly will bring the beginning of the climatic action of 1943. Whatever summer offensives are scheduled, either by the Axis or the Allies, will have to get under way this month.

HOW PAINFULLY TRUE!

In the U. S. department of labor's latest report on the cost of living, dealing statistically with what happened in the month ending March 15, there is one statement of surprising frankness.

"The statistics are based on actual selling prices, regardless of OPA ceilings," explains the report. As early as last March, in other words, there must have been official recognition in Washington (or at least there was in May, when the March statistics were released) that the cost of living was a matter of practice while ceiling prices were, in many instances, theory.

The buying public, knowing this, simply wondered what government officials were talking about when they dealt in generalities about the cost of living. The public had additional cause for perplexity and disbelief because of discrepancy between its actual experience and the government's statistical approach. The department of labor hopes to overcome this by including in its food cost index additional foods which people are buying in larger quantities, such as hamburger and liver; by giving more weight to quotations from war production centers, where prices are highest; and by shifting the importance of foods that have been made more difficult to obtain, such as bananas and beef.

To sum up, the cost of living isn't what a statistician says it is, but what a breadwinner knows it is when he meets it.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, June 4

ACCORDING to the contradictory configurations in this day's astrological pattern, there may be some definite and unlooked-for crises to be met and manipulated. With tongue, temper, impulses and feelings under firm and unfaltering control there is every promise of success and pleasant relations in both business and private life. Impetuosity and excess may provoke reprisals and restraint is indicated.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year in which happy and lucrative results depend a great deal upon the individual character and its temperamental or emotional control. With excess energies properly directed, and reasonable handling of the feeling and speech, serious dangers and regrets may be averted. Maintain calm.

High Ideals

A child born on this day may have excellent talents, high ideals, creative and romantic urges of note, but may prove its own undoing by its ungovernable emotions and impulses. Careful training will help.

There's no trouble about selling the question of where to spend our vacation this year. It'll be on the front porch, and watch the throng go by.

DIAGNOSIS NEEDS VARIOUS AIDS

History of Illness Helps Physician

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY in discussing the methods which the modern physician uses to make a diagnosis in order to find out what is the matter with his patient, to get acquainted with the patient himself in order to prescribe treatment wisely, we discussed in detail the first step which is taken, namely the gathering of the patient's history of his illness.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The average patient in the modern age is inclined to underrate the importance of this item. He has become familiar with the many machines the modern physician uses and ascribes to them, as he does to all machines, an inhuman kind of accuracy. He is inclined to believe, therefore, that what he tells the physician about his symptoms is very much less important than what can be gathered by the precision machines.

He also is conscious of the vagueness and inaccuracy of a good deal of his own testimony. No two people describe an event, even if they have just witnessed it, exactly the same or exactly accurately. How much less exact then must be the testimony of a person about his own feelings. He is not a good judge of himself.

Physician Overcomes Inaccuracy

The physician, however, knows all of this and discounts all of it and frames his questions to overcome the inherent inaccuracy. Then too, symptoms have a way of falling into patterns and the doctor of wide experience can usually tell when the patient is drawing the long bow and when he is sticking strictly to the truth.

There is a series of articles which appear in the New England Journal of Medicine, which many of my professional friends read religiously, week by week. These are stenographic accounts of a conference at the Massachusetts General hospital in which the hospital record of the patient is read out and analyzed by a member of the staff.

The correct diagnosis is known, although the analyst has not been informed of it. In looking over several hundred of these lately, I noted that the largest part of the report was in every case devoted to the history and whatever else the analyst may have neglected, he spent a good deal of time in weighing the significance of the history, which is the patient's statement. He may have failed to comment on the x-ray or the laboratory findings or other records but he always paid respectful attention to the history.

Digestive Diseases
As a final illustration, we may take the diseases of the digestive system. Early in this century the surgeons who opened up the abdomen to see what was the matter with the people who had dyspepsia taught us that the most important feature of making a diagnosis was the patient's symptoms. For instance, the patient tells you that he has discomfort in relation to meals; meals do not increase his discomfort, but relieve it.

He wakes up in the mornings with some indigestion, which is relieved by breakfast. He is then comfortable until about 11, when his discomfort returns, relieved by lunch. It returns again about 5 in the afternoon, relieved by dinner, and may wake him up in the middle of the night so that he has learned to have a glass of milk by his bed to keep him comfortable through the sleeping hours. This history is recited monotonously by patients with duodenal ulcer and all the x-rays and the stomach washings and the machines on earth, if they contradict this history, are wrong.

Questions and Answers

Reader: Please discuss tetany, its symptoms and its cure. How does it differ from fits, or epilepsy?

Answer: This is a somewhat surprising question because tetany is very rare. Tetany is a condition of spasm of the muscles, especially of the arm, which is due to calcium deficiency in the blood. It develops in the course of rickets in children and during pregnancy and after delivery in women. In the case of rickets, the calcium deficiency comes from the lack of vitamin D, with consequent inability to utilize calcium. In pregnancy it is due to the demands on the mother—giving to much calcium to the growing child. In either case it is relieved by giving calcium vitamin D and parathyroid extract.

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful Ann Foster was worried when she learned the sales force at "Marks-Park Avenue" was to be well into Christmas morning. Julia, her practical minded sister, an airline stewardess on the New York-Miami run, persistently encourages her to marry wealthy Vince Ogden, but Ann does not love him. At their small apartment she is greeted by Vince and Julia in festive holiday mood.

CHAPTER TWO

As his Christmas gift, Vince had brought for Ann a flat gold vanity case, he had slipped three $10 bills. Julia didn't intend to let her younger sister know about that. Ann would think the receipt of cash money was beneath the Foster sisters!

Indeed, Julia had been afraid Ann might refuse the gold vanity. She was that much of a fool! She had such idealistic scruples—which were luxuries, thought Julia, that no poor girl could afford!

So she had instructed the willing Vince to get the cocktails ready before Ann arrived. He had fixed a big shakerful of them, having himself brought the ingredients. A bottle of Scotch likewise.

Julia had made a platter of luscious chicken sandwiches, so they would have some fortification other than liquid before making the rounds. For Vince liked fun! Christmas Eve was an excellent reason for him indulging his taste in the Broadway glitter haunts and fashionable bottles of the East Side.

Ann had bought three pairs of silk stockings for Julia. Julia had splurged on a gay red velvet dress for Ann. It was to Vince's liking, for it was flamboyant. She changed into it before taking her cocktail.

Kind Vince had also brought funny little gifts for the tree. Things that jumped out at you and screamed and bit you. He had a schoolboy sense of humor.

Color stole into Ann's pale cheeks as she downed Vince's potent mixture. With the professional eye of the trained nurse, Julia watched Ann. She would get rid of her cough, thought Julia, if she could go down to Miami for the cold months! Vince had a yacht moored on Biscayne Bay. It would be an admiral's.

They laughed and put him off. Vince was kind. He told her he was only staying on in New York to be near her. That, next to her, he loved that yacht of his in Southern waters. Wouldn't she—couldn't she—see her way to come down?

They ran into friends. They all had a good time. When Ann insisted on going to St. Patrick's for the midnight service, they accompanied her, if reluctantly.

It was well into Christmas morning when the girls got home. Julia slept readily. But Ann lay awake for a while. The music had been so beautiful in the Cathedral. The services had soothed and comforted her. Somewhere, a way would open for her....

She saw Julia off at LaGuardia airport on Christmas night. It seemed that Vince hadn't gone to bed at all. He had promised to be at the airport.... but he was still sleeping off at his Park Avenue apartment. Ann was relieved.

Presently, one of the two pilots of the New York-Miami liner was introducing a tall and handsome young fellow to Julia. He looked magnificent in his uniform. He was Pilot-Officer Jim Brent, heading for Opa-Locha, where he was meantime to act as instructor to the cadets, it turned out.

Julia introduced him to Ann. He was shy. He didn't say much. But Ann thought he was terribly attractive. He had a very nice voice. They chatted for a moment. Then he moved off to join some friends. "I think he's awfully good-looking, Julia," said Ann, suddenly wishing that she, too, was going on the plane tonight.

Julia looked sharply at Ann. She conceded: "Maybe." She added: "But I think he's stuck-up. A stuffed short. He hasn't Vince's friendliness or jolliness."

Soon the plane was winging off into the darkness like a great silver bird. Ann had a sense of loneliness now. Back at the apartment, the telephone was ringing. Vince was waiting to come over. She put him off, saying she was tired, and that tomorrow she had to be early at the store.

Things went badly. She grew more and more certain that she would be among those let out after the holidays.

Coffee drinkers of southern Louisiana and Mississippi drink two or three times as much coffee as the average in the U. S. many of them from 10 to 15 cups a day.

Ann's coat was warm enough, but shabby. Vince assured her— "You can pick out the finest mink on Fifth Avenue, darling, if you'll only give me a tumble!"

She laughed and put him off. Vince was kind. He told her he was only staying on in New York to be near her. That, next to her, he loved that yacht of his in Southern waters. Wouldn't she—couldn't she—see her way to come down?

A few days later, the merchandise-manager was coming along her aisle just as she was in the middle of a fit of coughing. It was he who had engaged Ann as a salesgirl several months ago. He stopped and spoke kindly to her.

"You look tired, Miss Foster," he said. "You have a bad cold. Now that the Christmas rush is over, why don't you take a couple of days off, and take care of yourself? I'll speak to the section manager."

"Oh no, sir, please," hastily replied Ann, fearful that that would be the section manager's cue to let her out permanently.

The other still stood there. A thought struck him. He said: "Our Miami Beach branch-manager needs some salesgirls. Would you like to be transferred South?"

It seemed the answer to the prayer she had made on Christmas Eve in St. Patrick's Cathedral. She wouldn't be fired!

She accepted at once. Her transfer was made right after the first of the year. Julia naturally was delighted, and all the more so since Vince accompanied Ann on the South-bound train, to take up his residence aboard his yacht, the Pelican, on Biscayne Bay.

FRENCH FAIL TO MAKE AGREEMENT

Executive Committee Convened After Two-Day Deadlock

Muselier's name to his ouster lists. Gen. Henri Giraud's troops guarded key points in the city after a series of differences arising between him and Gen. de Gaulle, and there remained some uncertainty what course today's meeting would take.

Hopes For New Nation
The British minister, Harold MacMillan, told correspondents last night, however, that he and American Minister Robert Murphy hoped the long months of negotiation just ended "will culminate tomorrow in the rebirth of a nation."

"I can only say that we have tried, and that if we fail this time we shall try again," he added.

Murphy described the situation as no better than when De Gaulle arrived Sunday for the oft-deferred meeting with Giraud, but he said it was no worse.

MacMillan said "it's better to have arguments now than civil war in France afterward."

DeGaulle also scolded an optimistic keynote yesterday when he told correspondents at a press luncheon that the current situation would be recalled in French history as "a bad dream." His address followed a courtesy call on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief. French politics were not discussed, it was said.

Block Dictatorship
WASHINGTON, June 3.—Joint American-British action to block any attempt of Gen. Charles De Gaulle to erect a virtual fighting French dictatorship in Algiers was considered possible in diplomatic quarters here today.

Comment was withheld officially pending the outcome of General De Gaulle's negotiations with Gen. Henri Giraud, French commander in North Africa, in the hope that an executive committee would be formed as a practical symbol of political unity.

But if General De Gaulle used the negotiations, or the committee, to set himself up as sole political chief, it was believed possible the British would withdraw their financial support, a subsidy said to exceed American lend-lease aid to General Giraud's forces.

Lend-lease Administration Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., yesterday reported medicine, food, clothing and other civilian supplies valued at $35,000,000 had been sent to French North Africa. For this, General Giraud, our only lend-lease cash customer, already has paid $25,000,000 as well as sending a substantial amount of raw materials to Britain and the United States.

Some observers in the statement here privately voiced concern at the reported political confusion in North Africa, which they called "a regrettable mess" that might interfere with military preparations in the European theater.

So far as could be ascertained, the state department still is backing General Giraud.

The American authorities are believed to be only partly in sympathy with De Gaulle's reported insistence on an immediate purge of officials whom he considers pro-Vichy.

PACKARD WORKERS ARE REPORTED OUT

DETROIT, June 3.—Several thousand Packard Motor Car Co. employees were reported to have walked out this morning in a dispute over placing of Negroes on machine work.

No company official was available for comment. A spokesman for Local 190 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) said some departments of the plant were operating normally.

Brief work stoppages in recent weeks have resulted from similar disputes at the Packard plant, white employees walking out twice and Negro employees once, and the question was the subject of discussion at a union meeting last Sunday.

UAW-CIO officers have claimed the trouble was incited by some representatives of the management.

The Packard plant here produces aircraft and marine engines.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., June 3—John P. Stevens, the engineer who directed construction of the Panama canal, will be buried in Boston, Mass., Saturday. He died here yesterday at the age of 90.

Frick Coke company near Brownsville, Pa., said he was leading a "one-man rebellion" against the strike. Hartman worked both Tuesday and Wednesday, the only working coal digger to go into the mine there.

Operators have been tooting the work whistles at the pits regularly, keeping everything in readiness to operate if the men show up.

Unofficial estimates based on normal production figures showed a loss of more than 1,300,000 tons of coal daily in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the two largest producing states of the nation.

In West Virginia, railroads completed hauling the coal on hand prior to June 1, when the present walkout began, and started laying off some crews until traffic picks up again.

day and night operations with big fleets. The British are night bombers and are going all-out. The Americans are specialists in day bombing, and are doing a grand job, but they need more machines to increase their capacity. Indications are that this deficiency is being taken care of. The idea of this round the clock bombing is a fascinating bit of strategy. It keeps the boche constantly on the defensive at all points. They must be on the alert day and night, because they don't know when an attack is coming. This means that the German fighter squadrons and the anti-aircraft crews get little opportunity for sleep. In order to give warplane and gun crews adequate rest, it would be necessary to have three crews for each ship and each battery. Hitler just hasn't got 'em. Few things are so wearing on a soldier's endurance and morale as constant bombing with no chance for sleep. The general theory upon which the efficacy of all-out bombing of Germany is based is being well substantiated. Hitler's army is his strongest remaining weapon, and it is being deprived gradually of its striking power by the Allied aerial assault. The deterioration will proceed more rapidly with passing time. That is, it will be the slowing down of war production here at home doesn't cripple the great offensive. Huron Indians, remnants of the tribe driven eastward by the Iroquois, have established at Ancienne Lorette, near Quebec City, Quebec.

500 NAZI PLANES RAID KURSK BASE

At Least 123 Shot Down by Defenders, Says Red Communique

MOSCOW, June 3.—A force of about 500 German planes attacked the Russian base at Kursk yesterday afternoon and at least 123 were shot down, the Russians announced today, signaling a new and growing phase of the bitter aerial battle on the eastern front.

The Nazi air fleet represents the largest single mass of German aircraft concentrated in any sector for months and their reported losses marked one of the biggest single day's in any theater of aerial war.

A Moscow broadcast said 93 of the raiders were brought down by Soviet pilots in air duels and that anti-aircraft guns shot down 30 more, after some planes got through to the city "and haphazardly dropped bombs which inflicted material damage and casualties."

The Russians said they lost 30 planes and declared the tally of Nazi victims was incomplete.

(The Soviet noon communique as recorded by the London Soviet radio monitor said 37 German planes were shot down in the Kuban valley northeast of Novorossisk yesterday. Land action was minor except on the Kalinin front, where 2,000 Germans were killed in a two-day battle after a thrust that temporarily dented Russian defenses, the war bulletin said.)

(It also announced three towns were taken by the Russians in fighting around Sevsk, 80 miles northwest of Kursk.)

Strength of the sky forces in the Kursk region was held here to be a matching of power in an effort to gain air supremacy before any far-reaching land battle begins.

Elsewhere on the aerial front, the midnight communique said, 25 German planes were shot down in attempted raids on Leningrad.

In Critical Condition

MARION, O., June 3.—Mrs. Gladys Vance, 39, today was in critical condition from head wounds police said were self-inflicted shortly after her husband, Terley Vance, 38, suffered fatal burns in an explosion at their home.

Police Chief William E. Marks said firemen found a 25-foot garden hose attached to a gas heater in the bathroom and leading to the couple's bedroom.

Vance, Glenwood elementary school principal, reported the blast occurred when he lighted a cigaret on awakening yesterday. Marks asserted, Mrs. Vance shot herself twice as firemen investigated the explosion, he added.

CHINESE TROOPS CONTINUE GAINS

Recapture Changyang, Aided by Punishing Air Attacks

(By Associated Press)

CHUNGKING, June 3.—Chinese troops, continuing to advance on the Yangtze front in Central China, yesterday recaptured the town of Changyang, 12 miles south of the Japanese base at Ichang, and also occupied the Yangtze port of Chih-kiang, 35 miles below Ichang, an army spokesman announced today. Japanese troops are being driven back toward the south bank of the river on the whole upper Yangtze front, the spokesman added.

He said the Japanese had used altogether about 100,000 troops in the battle and suffered about 30,000 casualties.

A communique from the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell announced 10 counter-offensive blows were struck by the 14th U. S. Air Force May 30 and 31 in support of the Chinese army in the Lake Tungting area.

B-24 Liberator bombers were credited with destruction of 20 Japanese fighter planes and probable destruction of five others during bombardment of Ichang air fields and Chinese fighter pilots led by Lieut. Col. John Allison of Gainesville, Fla., destroyed three Zeros and probably wrecked three others.

Shipping blasted. At least five enemy planes were destroyed on the ground, a Japanese gunboat was set afire, four river boats were sunk or burned and the locomotives of four trains were knocked out. In addition, numerous casualties were inflicted on Japanese troops.

Two American planes were lost and several others were damaged. Recapture of Changyang would represent an advance of about 20 miles for the Chinese troops since they regained Yuyangkwan last Saturday.

Occupation of Chihkiang, the spokesman said, menaced Japanese communications with Ichang. (The Tokyo radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press in London, quoted an official Japanese statement today as saying that operations in Central China had been "successfully concluded and all Japanese forces who participated have been brought back to their bases.")

The Japanese originally started the drive with between 70,000 and 80,000 troops, the spokesman said, but reinforcements from Hankow and Yochow brought their total to 100,000.

He said the enemy's campaign was very well planned, but collapsed suddenly because the invaders committed the "tactical blunder" of allowing the Chinese to entice them into a mountainous area, where they were dealt an "annihilating blow."

Abandon Search

CINCINNATI, June 3.—Three Cincinnati detectives went to Hamilton on a treasure hunt yesterday but abandoned the project rather than disturb a Victory garden.

Informed by Los Angeles police that a 22-year-old prisoner held there had confessed burying 10 wedding ring sets and 15 watches in a tool chest in his back yard, the officers visited the home and found a thriving garden. The prisoner's parents expressed doubt that he had buried anything there, the detectives said.

Dodgers Determined To Lower Rating Of St. Louis Club

LEFTHANDER MACON EVENS SCORE WITH WORLD CHAMPIONS

Brings Brooklyn 3-2 Win: Yanks, Senators at Top In American

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals may be the world's champions, or, as Manager Billy Southworth calls them, the world's greatest ball club, but the Brooklyn Dodgers have to be rated as the most dogged, determined gang of diehards in the major leagues.

This spring the Cardinals have sparkled and glittered and won the admiration of all their rivals in the National league.

The Dodgers haven't looked good, a collection of old geezers with aches and pains. No fewer than four of them were treated on the same afternoon this week by Dr. Robert Hyland.

Yet the Dodgers have held first place since the first day of the season, and nothing the Cardinals have been able to do has been sufficient to dislodge them.

Durocher Takes Chance

Last night they seemed ready to fall. The Cardinals had humiliated all the Dodgers' strongest, fastest pitchers and were within half a game of taking over the field. Leo Durocher had to take a chance on the only lefthander he has on his staff, Max Macon.

Macon still hasn't pitched a complete game, but he beat the Cardinals to even their four-game series and restored Brooklyn to a game and a half lead. The score was 3-2.

The Dodgers, with a revamped lineup, made nine hits off Lanier before he gave way to a pinchhitter in the eighth.

Meanwhile, the American league scramble for first place became even closer than the National as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees 2-1 and the Washington Senators quelled the Cleveland Indians 13-1 in a night game. This jumped the Yanks and Senators in a virtual tie for the lead.

Reds Wallop Giants

Detroit held onto third place by beating the Philadelphia Athletics 7-2 behind five-hit hurling by Frank (Stubby) Overmire and the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox divided another pair of extra inning games. The Browns took the first 7-2 in 12 innings and the Red Sox retaliated in the nightcap 3-2 in ten innings with Yank Terry pitching four-hit ball.

In the National league Cincinnati walloped the New York Giants 13-6. The Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind in a night game to beat the Boston Braves 3-2 with three runs in the ninth inning.

The Phillies nosed out the Chicago Cubs 6-5 for Schoolboy Rowe and now have beaten the Bruins seven times in eight games.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, June 3.—"Speed-up" baseball sounds like a good idea to a lot of folks, but Prexy Will Harridge of the American league doesn't think it will work very well. For one thing, the ump's can't do much but hurry the players along between innings and if they try to cut short the pitchers' antics on the mound they're liable to hear a lot of pointed, ear-burning questions from the managers about whether they have a date that night.

As for Billy Evans' plan of making a flinger who is left on base go right to the mound without visiting the bench, Will thinks that when the weather gets really hot, Billy will find the boys need the breathing spell. Besides, Harridge adds, "we played a night game in an hour and 29 minutes recently and the fans didn't get enough." They had to flick the lights a few times to start them moving out.

COMEBACK MONEY

Tony Galento, throwing love pats, scored a knockout on Herbie Katz.

The commission asked, "what could be worse?" And then impounded Tony's purse.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Gil Dodds, Boston's triple-threat theologist, has it all figured out that Gunder Haeg already has reached this country and is "out in the woods somewhere training for his races." Sonny Horne, the Niles, Ohio, middleweight, was born only 60 feet from the birthplace of President McKinley. A "tip" relayed by Buck (Louisville Times) Weaver is that the Charles Town, W. Va., race track is about to close because of gas restrictions.

SERVICE DEPT.

Pvt. Art Passarella, former American league umpire who's now calling them for Camp Grant, Ill., says G. I. shoes are the best things he's ever found to wear behind the plate. Joe Ruetz, who resigned his commission in the navy physical training department to become an aviation cadet, says his three months at the Del Monte, Calif., pre-flight school will be well spent because "I'm a little soft after spending eight months as an ensign and need to get back into condition."

The Way They Throw Them Makes "Chuckers" Famous

BY DILLON GRAHAM

AP Features Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Carl Hubbell, the screwball pitcher, is the last lefty you'd call a screwball.

Tradition says baseball southpaws are screwballs—eccentric and unpredictable. But old Long Pants, calm, dignified and regular, disapproves the legend. Goofy Gomez once insisted Hub should be leg-lashed out of the lefthanders union and be made to chuck with his right arm.

But Hub to diamond fans is synonymous with screwball—that's the pitch that made him famous. Down through the years other flingers have become identified with some particular pitch—Christy Mathewson and his fadeaway, Eddie Cioffe and his shiner, Carl Mays and his submarine delivery, Urban Faber and his spitball, Bucky Walters and his knuckle ball, Jim Tobin and his butterfly, which is a knuckler, too; Claude Passeau and his slider and Walter Johnson and his fast ball.

These are just a few that Paul Derringer, the big Chicago Cubs hurler, and I recall in a gab fest the other day. There are some fans who don't know just what these various pitches are, so here's a little dope about them.

KNUCKLER—So-called because the pitcher grips the ball with the knuckles of his hand. The ball doesn't turn over as it approaches the plate and travels comparatively slow. That's where the expression came: "I could count the seams on the ball."

BUTTERFLY—A knuckler that seems to float and flutter. The pitcher throws it with his fingernails on the cover.

SINKER—A fast ball that breaks an inch or so to the right and down, the reverse english of a curve. Batters have a tendency to hit ground balls off it.

SCREWBALL—Something like the sinker, except that it breaks twice as much, is slower, and is thrown with a flip of the wrist.

FADEAWAY—Same as Hubbell's screwball, except thrown by a right-hander.

SLIDER—A shortened curve and a faster ball it breaks only a bit and rather rolls away from the batter instead of making a big break. It's a deceptive pitch, spins like a curve, and batters think that's what they are getting.

SHINER—A spinning fast ball that sails away from the batter. It's illegal now. Pitchers would rub a shiny spot on the ball and this would make the ball break downwards, if the pitcher threw it with the shiny spot on top, and out, if the doctored area was held to the side.

SPITBALL—Also illegal now. When this pitch was permissible, chunkers chewed slippery elm, moistened their fingers and made a wet spot on the ball that made it dart down and out. The ball revolved slowly.

SUBMARINE—Mays, Elden Auker and others threw the ball underhanded and that brought the expression.

There are different kinds of curves, too. A sidearm curve breaks away from a batter, an overhand breaks down and three-quarter delivery curve breaks down and out.

Various knucklers throw their specialty with different grips on the ball. Brooklyn's Fred Fitzsimmons has the backs of his index and middle fingernails and the heel of his thumb pressed against the cover. Tom Presnell used to dig the tips of his index, middle and fingers into the seams. Dutch Leonard uses only two finger tips. Presnell pitched sidearm only but he could make the ball break in any direction. Since the ball doesn't spin, the stitches "catch" on the air to cause a "flutter" just as the ball reaches the plate.

Umpires behind the plate find the knuckle-ball pitchers the toughest to observe. "The ball zigzags when it nears the plate" one umpire explained, "and it may break inside or outside. With a knuckler on the mound, an umpire has to be slow in calling a ball or strike until he is sure of what it is."

Auker was a bad one for the men in blue, too. He kept his submarine ball low and the low ones are more difficult to judge. Bob Feller kept on their toes because his good curve was thrown with almost as much speed as his fast ball.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 3.—William "Navy Bill" Ingram, one of the U. S. naval academy's greatest football players and a widely known football coach, is dead.

His death was discovered yesterday when he failed to rise for breakfast at his home here. He was 46.

Ingram was a marine corps major in charge of procurement in the San Francisco bay area. Previously he had been a chain store executive.

He is survived by his widow and three children.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Edward (Moose) Krause, new coach of the University of Notre Dame basketball team, was an All-Western tackle in 1932 and an All-America court center in 1933 for the football season, he played 521 of a possible 540 minutes of varsity football.

Johnny Cooney, Dodger outfielder, broke in with the Boston Braves as a pitcher in 1921.

Vern Kennedy Says Indians Leave Too Many Men on Bases

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—You might say that Vernon Kennedy, Cleveland righthander, is one of the old men creaking around in the big leagues, therefore he should be just the man to talk a lot on baseball during a war-time season.

And it's all right to say Kennedy has been around and knows what it is all about. This is his ninth season in the American league, and he has been with every club save Boston and New York since he came up from Oklahoma City of the Texas league in 1934.

In Kennedy's last start, Cleveland lost a one-run decision to the surprising Washington team, and that seemed like a logical place to start loosening him up.

"What's wrong with that Cleveland club anyway? All of the sports writers say the Indians are the ones to beat the Yankees out."

"We aren't hitting, that's all there is to it," Kennedy replied sadly. "We've got the punch but it hasn't been coming at the right time. Too many men left on the bases."

Our infield is the best in the league, but one bad play costs us a ball game every time."

"I haven't heard a single player get the bird about not being in the

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Stern measures to end the coal strike were anticipated from the White House today. President Roosevelt was represented by competent sources as ready to order the nation's 500,000 striking miners back to the pits.

It was said that the men would be instructed to pick up their tools again for the sake of the war effort and that their wages would be based on the terms of the expired contract while a solution was sought in conference.

Congress continued to resound with reaction to the coal situation. The house called up an anti-strike bill but a stack of proposed amendments indicated a vote was a day off.

The law making body had one of its greatest tasks of the 78th congress out of the way. Action was completed in the senate on the bill placing the public on a current income tax collection basis July 1. The measure went to the White House with leaders forecasting presidential approval.

Services For War Heroes In African Cemetery

In North Africa, U. S. soldiers remember their dead buddies in a Memorial day service. The steel-helmeted firing squad fires a volley over the graves of American comrades in El Alia cemetery near Algiers during Memorial day services. The picture is a radiophoto from Algiers.

Pacific warfare turned up two into China by air as ever moved by way of the Burma road. The home front felt another impact of the war. OPA increased coupon requirements for purchase of beef from one to three points a pound, starting Sunday. The idea, it was explained, was to divert appetites to the more plentiful pork, lamb and veal.

POST-WAR MISSION RALLY PROPOSED

COLUMBUS, June 3.—The Ohio district of the American Lutheran church today proposed an all-American Lutheran convention to consider post-war mission work.

Delegates to the denomination's state convention adopted a resolution urging that the meeting be held and that all Lutheran groups in North and South America send representatives.

The convention deferred action until next year on a plan to permit American Lutheran ministers to preach by invitation in United Lutheran and Missouri synod churches and to allow pastors from the latter two groups to conduct services in American Lutheran churches.

Miss Estella Schaeffer, lay delegate from St. Peter's Lutheran church of Hamilton, today became the second woman in the Ohio district's history to attend convention sessions.

Miss Anne Kel of Faith-Zion church of Dayton will be commissioned a parish visitor tonight, the first woman so designated in the district.
